GOLF HOLIDAYS 2007-2008

GRAYHAWK—TALON & RAPTOR GOLF COURSES SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA

The Talon Course, designed by former U.S. Open and PGA Champion David Graham and architect Gary Panks, is one of the most exciting and dramatic golf courses in the Southwest. In fact the 7,001-yard, par-72 Talon course was recently named among Golf Magazine's 'Top 10 You Can Play in U.S.' and has been selected to host many prestigious events, including the finals of the inaugural Andersen Consulting World Championship of Golf in 1995.

Talon offers elevated greens that are large and undulating, with numerous water hazards coming into play as well as one hole with an island green. Especially memorable are the par-3 11th hole, called "Swinging Bridge," and the par-4 13th, infamously known as "Heaven or Hell" because of the risk-reward value that is placed on the tee shot from 305 yards. In addition to thrilling golf, Talon provides players with breathtaking views of the nearby McDowell Mountains.

The Raptor Course, which opened in 1995, is very scenic and has unique views that could catch any golfers' eye, including the large lake that is adjacent to the clubhouse and hole 18, a 521-yard, par 5. Designed by Tom Fazio, the course offers a thrilling golf challenge that commands a player's respect through a daring, high-stakes game of risk and reward. Stretching 7,108-yards from the back tees the par-72 course meanders over the gentle hills and across the deep natural arroyos that are typical of the Sonoran Desert.

Raptor is a visually striking layout that affords beautiful mountain views and features tee shots that often demand short desert carries. You'll find rolling, jewel-green fairways, superb par-3s and lush landscaping. It also includes extensive mounding and massive bunkering, as well as shot-making pushed to the edge. It's not for beginners, and even seasoned players will struggle when it is windy.

To score well on this course, it is important to avoid the green-side bunkers, which are contoured, deep and abundant. Traps often line the front of raised green complexes that are very putt-able - if you can reach without landing in the hazards.
